Continuation Sheet (PTO-413)

Continuation of Substance of Interview including description of the general nature of what was agreed to if an agreement was reached, or any other comments: Mr Ehrlich explained the invention and discussed what applican believes to be the difference between the instant application and the prior art of Vatter et al '888. Mr. Ehrlich said that the physical properties of the composition claimed in the application are not disclosed in the prior art. Examiners said that the ingredients are the same therefor the properties of the composition are inherent. Mr. Ehrlich stated that by applying the composition to skin, a shear foecr is applied to the composition. Examiner, referring to the last Office Action, reminded the applicants that Vatter disclosed the preparation to be in the form of mousse or gel, which generally liquify upon application on the skin. Mr. Ehrlich at that point decided to change his argument by stating that the instant composition may not be applied to skin, and that the properties of the composition will still apply if the composition is merely sitting on the table and one is mixing it with a pencil. This argument was not acceptable to the examiners and Mr. Ehrlich said the applicants may file a petition.
